BITS Seminar – Thon Hotel EU in Brussels
Wednesday, June 21, 2017 - 16:00 to 18:30

The reform of EU e-privacy rules

The European Commission adopted in January 2017 a legislative proposal for an e-Privacy Regulation (ePR). The ePR will replace the current e-Privacy Directive (ePD) and will complement the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) with specific rules for the electronic communications sector, including OTT services.

On June 21 in the morning, the European Parliament rapporteur for the proposed ePR, MEP Marju Lauristin (S&D, Estonia) will present her report on the ePR to the European Parliament Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (LIBE) committee. The report is scheduled to be voted in the European Parliament LIBE committee and in plenary session in October. The Maltese Presidency of the Council wants to finalise the first examination of the proposal before the end of its mandate in June 2017.

In this context, the BITS seminar will provide a timely platform for institutional and industry stakeholders to exchange views on key aspects of the proposal.
